Manuscript Checklist: Clinical Review

Manuscripts of this type are brief reviews summarizing evidence on a specific clinical question.

- Cover letter addressed to AOA Editor in Chief Robert Orenstein, DO, with any special requests (e.g., rapid review) noted and justified
- A title page including the following information about all authors:
  - full name, title, and affiliation
  - contact information
  - financial disclosures
- An acknowledgment section with a concise, comprehensive list of the contributions made by individuals who do not merit authorship credit and permission from each individual to be named in print
- Manuscripts in this category should consist of the following 3 sections:
  - introduction to the topic
  - summary of the evidence
  - conclusion
- A box that summarizes the main points by answering the following questions:
  1. What is the clinical question?
  2. What does the evidence say?
  3. What is the take home message for clinicians?
- Clinical reviews should be kept to 1500 words and 25 references.